IV. REU GE Update Discussion

Josh: Student opinion?

Sam: I think it's that people just don't know.

Gio: It seems pretty positive, people are saying that it seems nice.

Kaitlyn: As in the GE or the response?

Gio: The response– people don't seem upset with the results.

Aara: after the meeting with the AAC, the student opinion did shift and people did gauge that it didn't seem like enough.

Kirby: The most frustrating part is that we don't have an objective and unbiased timeline of what has happened. I don't understand how this decision was made.

Josh: I don't know.

Ryu: Freshmen aren't talking about it at all.

Kirby: You did arrive at the tail end.

V. Club Stoles

Sam: Clubs asking if ASCMC will purchase stoles. We can, clubs will be happy, then it becomes an issue of clubs becoming competitive because of stoles. Or we can have it so that only affinity groups have stoles which we've done in the past. Some already have, like PPE and etc. We can also tell all groups no.

Desmond: ASCMC stole with a club button is another option.

Sam: Stole for all seniors, are we going to purchase ASCMC stoles because if we are doing clubs, ASCMC is a club.

Desmond: The most affordable way to do this and the one that resolves equity issue is have an ASCMC purchased stole that has pins that can be placed on it for club related ones. Buttons are very very cheap. If they get damaged, you can get another. They aren't flashy. Some people say "oh no! I have to choose which stole to wear! they're so heavy!". Doing it this way is not flashy and instead only has it based on pride

Kirby: isn't there a possibility that they can crowdsource stoles- can we really tell them no here?

Sam: One thing i've learned, the threat of not being able to recharter holds weight

Kirby: RDS, PPE, RA, what else?

Desmond: CLSA, QRC, Questbridge, some others.

Sarai: QB gets them through admissions though.

Wolfgang: Do the other schools do this? How common is this paid for at the other 5cs/other schools in general?

Sam: ASPC does, mudd doesn't, not too sure about the others.

Aara: i like the button idea, more sustainable, more sentimental (you can hold onto it longer)

Josh: if you let every club do it, then the "too heavy" issue returns again.

Zane: precedence for stole vs button?

Desmond: Buttons for whole grade- 1k. Stoles- 5k.

Sam: hundreds would be saved for clubs.

Kirby: aren't we already dealing with a huge budget problem anyway? We should make sacrifices here.

Sam: Strawpoll on buttons (clearly agreed on).

Sam: clubs that aren't funded by ascmc is no stoles period, otherwise they can besides those already purchased (1gen, advocates).

Chris: would the clubs themselves design their own buttons?

Sam: Yes. They would design their own stoles anyway.

Desmond: We can give people grace money in "other items" and cfo can authorize/unauthorize.

Josh: where would 5k come from?

Desmond: general post budget freeze

Sam: orders would have to be placed before mid april.

VI. Monte Carlo Pregames

Gio: The class presidents aren't all here..... Pregames are a good way to have the classes come together. also good so that RA's don't have a ton to shut down beforehand. Pirate party one was mildly disorganized

Wolfgang: I tried doing something with seniors last year and got left hanging. We could do something with the seniors but if the seniors are heavily resistant (it would be ideal jr + sr, soph + freshmen). I don't think seniors would like being with freshmen

Josh: id pre with freshmen

Kaitlyn: I know last year a big concern was that the underclassmen can't fund alcohol, hence the upper/under joint.

Desmond: Juniors can't either.

Nisha: not doing freshman senior, maybe soph senior/fresh junior

Kaitlyn: that's what we did last year

Ryu: So it's not all grades?

Gio: no that'd be a mini party.

Tori: If we're doing soph/sr, jr/fresh i can rationalize that. Last year, no juniors came.

Gio: i was there since the beginning, it honestly just wasn't well organized. I remember last year something was about to be planned either with me and amari or amari and wolfgang, i imagine that shouldn't be an issue this year.

Josh: It's also a messaging issue. don't worry about being annoying. its fun!

Chris: any senior event should also be at the apartments to make sure that they actually go.
